GOOD FLOW OF GAS FROM ONE NEW WELL; OTHER WELLS POOR

West Monongahela Gas Co. Turns in Gas to Its Mains From Boyle Farm

GREENSBORO PLUGS OPENING

Test Proves Unsatisfactory to Local People—Other Test Wells Driven Near Monongahela Company's Strike

Gas from the recently opened well of the West Monongahela Gas company on the Boyle farm is being turned into mains of the company. Workmen have been busy for the last ten days digging the trench and laying the pipe, it requiring over 12,000 feet of eight inch pipe to make the connection. Connections were completed by Superintendent Matthew O'Conner Friday and the first gas turned in.

The well is the one struck within the last few weeks by drillers for the Byers interests of Monongahela. It had a flow of about 5,000,000 cubic feet a day from the first. This was considered a good, though not an exceptional flow. A good flow is being maintained.

In spite of the strike by the Byers' interests, the Greensboro Gas company has been unable to drill into paying quantities of gas and plugged their well this week on the Pieper farm. The People's Gas company brought in a dry well in a test on the Clyde Morris farm after prospecting in the various sands. The Philadelphia Gas company have a hole down over 500 feet on the Wilson farm and another test down over 600 feet nearby. The People's Gas company also have a test down over 500 feet on the Van Voorhis farm and will locate another well in the near vicinity.

Charles Hanbury, district deputy and several local members including Ira L. Nickeson, Chauncey G. Collins and C. K. Chalfant. A good social and musical program was carried out, and an old-fashioned P. H. C. good time was enjoyed.. As a means of further increasing the attendance as well as interest, each member agreed to try to bring a friend to next week's meeting.

TOO MUCH NIGHT IN THIS LAND TO NORTH

Edward McCleary, Just Back From Spitzbergen, Tells of Experiences—Engaged There in Mining Work—World's Series Results Nine Months Late

About the finest grade of coal obtainable anywhere is to be had in Spitsbergen, 1,000 miles north of Norway, but Edward "Bull" McCleary, the former famous State College athlete is mighty glad to get back to where there is law, order, civilization, real living, and daylight when you want it. Spitsbergen is so far north that three-fourths of the year is night and that's altogether too long for any man to sleep in McCleary's opinion.

McCleary left the United States in May 1914 and so isolated was he from the time of his arrival in the "no-man's land" somewhere near the north pole that he didn't even know the results of the 1914 world's series until July 25, 1915. Then the awful suspense was ended by the arrival of a steamer with the news of the Boston Braves' wonderful spurt and victory.

McCleary was employed in Spitsbergen by the Arctic Coal company of Boston, Mass., being the assistant superintendent in extensive mining operations in that debatable land.

"There are no natives in Spitsbergen," said McCleary. "The only people there are the miners imported by the company and a few hunters, who look for such game as polar bear, deer and other game characteristic to the climate.

"Nobody owns the island. There are several countries claiming it, but I have not learned that contentions have been settled. There is no town there, only just the mining camp. Consequently there is no law, for there is nobody to make it. It is almost a land without a title.

McCleary told something of the coal mining trade as followed in Spitsbergen. Slope mining is followed the same as in the Monongahela valley of Pennsylvania, but the grade of coal is far better than the Monongahela valley grade. During the winter time, when electric lights are forever burning and there is no daylight, approximately 180 men are employed. In the summer, or day part of the year 250 men usually are kept at work. Only the official staff of the company were Americans, the miners being Norwegians, Finns and Swedes.

"What struck me," said McCleary "was the interminable darkness nine months of the year. From about October until July there was no daylight and not a sign of a boat made its appearance. We didn't know what was transpiring in the rest of the world. During July, August and September we had constant daylight.

"In the summer of 1914 we had two or three boats every week as a rule, but this last summer was rather unusual. During all that time we had only five boats. They came in for coal or to land hunters or miners."

McCleary does not propose to go back to Spitsbergen, or at least not for quite awhile. On his way home he stopped at State College, where he closely followed the work of the State College football squad. "They have a mighty fast bunch there," he said. "I don't know a thing about Pitt's team, but I do know State is good."

HIGHWAY HEADS URGING HURRY

Want Jitney Men Among Others to Get Applications For Licenses in Early

WILL RIGIDLY ENFORCE ACT

Applications for 1916 licenses are coming into the State Highway Department in great numbers but State Highway Commissioner Cunningham today issued a statement in which he again called upon owners and operators of automobiles to get their applications for license tags in at an early date. The statement particularly urged those owners operating five or more cars to hurry their applications along. Prompt action by these owners will do away with much of the congestion which has arisen in previous years in the Automobile Division of the State Highway Department.

Another class of owners to whom the commissioner particularly addressed his appeal are those operating jitneys. The enormous increase in automobile traffic in congested centers the last year is due largely to the operation of jitneys, causing the State Highway Commissioner to lay great stress on this in the statement issued today.

While the statement is so worded as not to express threats of what will be done to those who fail to make their applications in time, yet the commissioner made it plain that a rigid enforcement of the provisions of the automobile act would be undertaken and that those who neglect to apply for licenses need expect no leniency.

Albert J. Hilton Denied Letters of Administration On Hilton Estate

CIRCUMSTANCES ARE UNUSUAL

Register Parshall Goes Deep Into Question to Show Which of Contending Factions Should Be Favored.

In a decision handed down Friday by Register Boyd C. Parshall in the matter of the contest arising out of the settlement of the estate of the late Wallace J. Hilton of Monongahela letters of administration are refused Albert J. Hilton a brother of the deceased and as the register sets forth "unless some disqualification be shown letters of administration on the above estate will be issued to Albah Hilton who has duly applied the same."

Wallace J. Hilton was shot and killed last August by Samuel McPherson, the case of the commonwealth against McPherson not yet having been disposed of. Following Hilton's death there were two claimants to his estate. The one Sarah Hilton of Monongahela lived with Hilton at the time of death and who was reputed to be was known as the wife of Wallace Hilton. The other claimant Kizziah Jane Hilton of Cleveland who claimed she was the wife of W. J. Hilton, averring she was married to him a number of years ago and not ever having been legally separated from him.

The Mrs. Hilton from Cleveland renounced her right to act as administrator in favor of Albert J. Hilton a brother of the deceased. Subsequently to the filing of this paper the surviving brothers and sisters of Mr. Hilton renounced their right to act and asked that Albert J. Hilton be appointed administrator

HEAVIER TAXES SURE

The warning will probably not be heeded, but all the same municipal, county and school authorities, as they approach the tax-levying time, if they are wise, will bear in mind that congress is certain to take considerably more from the people next year and perhaps longer, than heretofore. Therefore it behooves local governments to bear lightly and to have that regard for taxpayers that is due when national emergency makes extraordinary demands, says the Gazette Times. Assumption that conditions, being more prosperous now than they were a year ago, warrant lavish expenditures and the imposition of additional millage ought to give way to developments in a situation at Washington which cannot be avoided, unless all present indications are misleading.

Already the Wilson administration by its tariff legislation, has so diminished customs receipts as to find it expedient to impose new internal taxes—the income tax and the war tax. Owing to the treasury deficit and to increased expenditures growing out of the war there will be other taxes levied by the approaching congress. Even if the preparedness program is cared for in whole or part by bond issue the revenue laws will have to be amended—or at least that is what the Democratic party will do with them. Existing war taxes will be continued until the close of European hostilities. There may be a federal inheritance tax. It is probable the income tax will be made applicable to married men receiving $2,000 or over per annum instead of $4,000, with $1,000 as the minimum for single men instead of $3,000. There may be a tax on automobiles and on gasoline and it is possible there will be an excise tax on war munitions. Appropriations by congress at its last session were the largest ever made and the next session will go higher yet. From this apparently there is no escape.

The taxing authorities of local governments will probably protest that they are not bound to take cognizance of national problems and conditions. That is true. But they may well do so nevertheless, particularly as the complaint that taxes are too high is never-ceasing. Their tendency is to go at the question from the viewpoint of how much ought we to have and how much can we get, instead of how little can we get along with and yet meet proper requirements. Thus the taxpayer's burden is seldom relieved except temporarily and in scant measure.

POSTAL SERVICE.

Among other details of a general complaint regarding poor mail service due to late arrival of mails presented at a meeting of the Business Men's Association, was that people living on rural routes far distant in the country are receiving their morning mail on an average of an hour sooner than people of Charleroi living almost within hailing distance of the postoffice. If this allegation is correct, there is room for noteworthy improvement.

It is particularly pleasing to note one feature of the statement. This is the early arrival of the mails on the rural routes. But the thing that grates is that town deliveries are not being placed nor kept on a par with the rural deliveries—if the complaint is founded upon facts, and there is reason to believe it is.

What the people want is equality. They don't care one continental that their neighbors in the country are getting the very best there is in mail service, providing they in town are receiving the same consideration from the postal authorities. But they do demand this.

Preliminary preparations are being made for the observance of a go-to-church Sunday on November 28. The plan is for every person who can to attend the church of his or her choice on that day, it being a movement that has become almost universal, though never before tried in Charleroi. It is a good movement and worth while observing enthusiastically. United effort on the part of church members is necessary and only that can bring the success the movement deserved.

One merchant of Charleroi, enthusiastic in favor of the shop early movement has piled away already a large lot of Christmas packages. There is sound sense to the plan of early buying and there is sound sense in encouraging sentiment in its favor.

Newspaper advertising wins the proper attention for churches the same that it does for any business in the belief of a Boston minister, whose ideas are closely seconded by a Pittsburg pastor. There is no real argument against the use of printer's ink for the benefit of church work.

"Is it" was the reply. "P'raps I did. p'raps I did," he admitted. "but I had quite forgotten meeting you for the moment. I was doing seven days last week, and there was such a lot of us, you see."

"Why, I told him that our gas bill for this month was too high," replied Mrs. Gabb. "And he argued that it was too low and that the gas company was getting all the worst of it."

QUESTION OF WIDOWS

Wallace J. Hilton, filed a bond and caveat, stating therein that she was the legal and only surviving widow, and asked that letters of administration be issued to her as the first in line entitled to the same

The register does not pass upon the question "Was Kizziah Jane Hilton the lawful wife of Wallace J Hilton at the time of his death?" The register says that "We do not care at this time to go on record, either in the negative or affirmative as it is more probable that this case will finally reach the orphan's court for adjudication; but we will say that from the character of the testimony submitted in this case, we are of the opinion that letters of administration should properly be denied the petitioner, Albert J. Hilton Considerable testimony was taken in the case, each woman claiming to be the lawful widow, being represented by counsel

TELLS CONDITION

Bond issue of 1907, $10,000—for improving and paving streets of the borough.

Bond issue of 1913, $17,000—for the purpose of funding floating indebtedness $7000, grading and paving streets, $12000.

Bond issues of 1914, $75,000—for the purpose of providing for municipal improvements as follows: For the purchase of site and the erection of a municipal building $10,000, for improving the thoroughfares of the borough $65,000.

The bond issues show there has been appropriated for street improvement and paving $51,447, exclusive of the $65,000 for improving the thoroughfares of the borough in the bond issue of 1914.

Our book show that $59,850 has been paid as the borough share for paving streets and alleys to Jan 1, 1914. We are carrying on our books paving liens against property owners on Lincoln avenue between First and Second streets amounting to $945.14, which has been decided uncollectable and which must be charged to the boroughs share of paving making a total of $64,795.14 paving bill to Jan. 1, 1914.

A word of explanation—the $945.14 uncollectable paving on Lincoln avenue between First and Second streets was not because the paving was not satisfactory but because a few of the abutting property owners through a technical error in passing the ordinance refused to pay their just assessment. The above statement shows that we have placed in the paving fund above the full amount appropriated by the bond issued for both paving and street improvement and still the paving fund is short $13,348.-14 of the borough's share of paving to January 1, 1914.

The bond issues further show that $28,000 was appropriated toward liquiding the boroughs indebteiness. Of this amount $13,348.14 must be placed in the paving fund to make our paving fund equal the $64,795.14 which was the borough's share of paving to Jan. 1, 1914. The balance of the $28,000, or $14,651.86 in the general fund has been used in purchasing a lot and the erection of a lockup building, constructing an addition to the firemans building, grading and permanent improvement of the streets and deficiency in the general fund, form the incorporation of our borough to Jan. 1, 1914.

The bond issue of 1914 provides $65,000—for improving the thoroughfares of the borough. The borough's share of paving for 1914 was $12,-404.91 leaving a balance of $52,595.09 for permanently improving the streets at Jan. 1, 1915. In preparing the yearly budget of the ordinary receipts and disbursements the estimate can be very accurate but often there are unforseen expenditures that come up and must be met. Our big item of expense is providing for the bonds, requiring about one half of our ordinary receipts.

Bonds of 1894 are paid in full this year and bonds of 1896 in 1917.

In making this statement I wish to show that the borough has not been using in the general fund any funds appropriated for street paving and a careful study of the same will rather s how the reverse.

BREAK UP BRONCHIAL COUGHS, CROUP AND COLDS PROMPTLY

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonsful for 50 Cents.

Don't neglect your first cold, cough or any Bronchial affection, this fall but commence treatment immediately, and thorough using the proper medicine, it can be checked from the very start and promptly cured, but if neglected probably will hang on all winter; if it does not develop into something more serious, such as Pneumonia or Consumption. True, there are hundreds, yes thousands of cough remedies on the market. While some are good, there are many which are not, but are positively harmful, due to the narcotics which they contain. But why experiment with these different remedies purely on the strength perhaps of some testimonials or on the exaggerated claims of manufacturers when Schiffman's New Concentrated Expectorant is sold by Piper's Pharmacy on such a positive guarantee to give perfect satisfaction, yes even more—money will be refunded by them if it is not found the best remedy ever used in Severe Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough or Croup, and it will also be found excellent for Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. Besides these druggists guaranteeing "that it will be the best remedy ever used," it will likewise be found the most economical, because one bottle (50 cents worth) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonsful) of the most excellent medicine for any of the above affections, when mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. It meakes as much, or more, than would cost you $2.00 to $3.00 of almost any of the ordinary ready-made kinds, sold in bottles holding only 24 to 32 teaspoonsful. You will be the sole judge yourself and under the same positively "Money Back" guarantee which the druggists make for the famous Asthmador. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy.

Use Zinc as Nuggets.

A shoveler in one of the Joplin zinc mines who had seen in the movies how the gold miners bought what they needed with gold nuggets, recently laid a small chunk of zinc ore on a bar counter and called for a beer. The bartender served the drink te him and laid down 20 cents in change, and of course the crowd laughed and cheered.

Such is the spirit of the Joplin zinc boom, with crude zinc ore now worth seven cents a pound, which is about 50 per cent higher than the refined product spelter has averaged for many years.—Wall Street Journal.
